[From the Daily, July 31.]

Mayor Saint is making a western business trip.

C. P. Jones, the milkman, has sold his interests to Chas. Zeiger and Chas. Geach.

Karl A. Snyder and family will spend a few weeks vacation in southern California.

The family of Major F. T. Berry have returned from an outing at San Lorenzo springs.

The agent of the Irrigation Age at Denver appears to be in the soup financially in this city.

H. C. O'Leary's wife and children have returned home from a pleasant visit with friends at Magdalena.

B. S. Hoxley and family are at Santa Fe, where Mr. Hoxley has several cases before the supreme court.

W. S. Strickler, cashier of the Bank of Commerce, has purchased the splendid team of blacks from Major Maynard.

Hank Pinckney will open an abstract office in this city. He is an expert, and one of the best abstract men in the west.

C. L. Hubbs has returned from an extended eastern business trip. He says the whole country is looking prosperous.

John Eberhart, who is a recent arrival from Wisconsin, is very sick with consumption. He has rooms in the Highlands.

The Jay eye saloon is being removed to the J. H. Hughes building on Second street, where Masters, the general proprietor, will fit up a commodious resort.

Wm. Crane, of Coolidge, is in the city. He reports the arrival of a boy at the residence of J. E. Fish, the station agent. Uncle Bill insists that Coolidge is a great place for fish culture.

The Blanchard Meat and Supply company this morning began the erection of a temporary structure on First street, to be used as a butcher shop until the Greenleaf building is erected.

The new Congregational parsonage is finished and ready for occupancy. It is a handsome two-story cottage. Rev. Christy will give a "house warming" in his new home on next Friday evening.

Sister Ernestine, teacher of art at the Sisters' Academy, is at present visiting the different studios and art museums of the east. She will probably not return before the latter part of August.

Scott Knight has received a letter from the secretary of the home company at Santa Fe, asking information about the tournament. It is probable that the capital city will have a team present during the fair.

Edward Rosenwald has received a letter from his brother, Aaron, in Germany. He writes that he intends soon to make a visit to Henry N. Jaffa, who is now residing in Germany, after which he will make an extended European tour.

Several hundred signs across the sidewalks are being taken down at the order of the mayor and city council. The work is greatly improving the appearance of the streets, but is causing the people considerable expense and bad temper.

Louis Immert, whose fruit farm is near Bernillo, will produce 200 barrels of native wine this year. He has 15,000 grape vines producing and they represent nine varieties from all countries under the sun. He also has 200 peach trees, most of them early, and has marketed his crop thus far at 15 cents per pound.

A card from E. L. Bana.

The following card appears in one of the El Paso papers, dated July 27: In regard to an article the Albuquerque Democrat had about me, accusing me of certain things, I will say that I was perfectly surprised when on my return, my friends showed me the article. As far as I know, I know of nothing that I can be ashamed of, and I did not "skip" the country, either. I came here on business and it is unknown to me that any one has taken any steps against me. I am on American soil, and will be until I die, and will take train to-day for my home at 1 o'clock. If any one wishes to see me, he can find out where I live in New Mexico, and he will be cordially entertained. It would do me no better pleasure in this world, than to have the editor of the Democrat call and see me at San Mateo, Valencia county, New Mexico, and if he will only give me one day's notice of his coming, he will be most warmly entertained by me. If my creditors want to see me, they can come to me. I never gave any cause to Mr. Albright to publish anything wrong or unfavorable about me.

At your service,
RAMON L. BANA.

Shooting Tournament.

The committee soliciting funds for the gun club, have secured the sum of $300. This will provide several good premiums, and the three jewelers of the city have agreed to contribute handsome trophies. A three days tournament will take place during the fair.

Counterfeit coin.

A few days ago James Lewis, a tough looking tramp, was arrested for passing counterfeit money, and was bound over for trial in the district court by Judge DeHamm. Yesterday the little son of C. P. Jones found $12 of counterfeit money where Lewis hid it just before his arrest. Lewis is supposed to be one of a gang of counterfeiters who are flooding the west with counterfeit dollars. His chances are good for the pen.

Marshal Maston tried to get Jim Law, the counterfeiter, to confess this morning, and urged him to make a clean breast of the whole thing, telling him he would get fifteen years if he refused, and one if he would tell where he got the counterfeit money. Lewis said he would take the fifteen years before he would peach on his pals.

James Springs.

Dr. W. T. Strachan, V. P. K. and J. T. Johnson returned from Jones this morning. They report fishing good, and that the amiable and affable druggist, John Phelan, is enjoying himself at the Sulphur Springs. J. W. Walton, assisted by James Hennessey, is running a good hotel. A large crowd of vacationers at the Sulphur springs, among the number being Dr. Sloan of Santa Fe, Lee Walker and the O'Leary boys are camped near Walton's. Dr. Strachan made a great reputation as a tick at Waltons, taking for a few days the place of one of the cooks who skipped out. The town of Jones is reaping a harvest from the health seekers. To show the effect of the water at Jones, it is only necessary to mention that Col. Frank Perez, the promoter of the place, is the father of thirty children.

[From the Daily, July 31.]

The Albuquerque territory is crowded with orders.

W. B. Childers is taking a vacation trout fishing on the Pecos.

Postmaster Whitcomb has given the postoffice a general cleaning up.

E. W. Kibbourne, county surveyor, went to Gallup last night to survey the town site.

Dr. Talmage, the celebrated Brooklyn divine, will visit this city soon and deliver a lecture.

J. B. Tarbox, in the Highlands, is growing some of the finest fruit ever seen in the territory.

A. A. Klueck is going east tonight, for the purpose of buying a large stock of merchandise.

There is a big demand for more business houses, especially on Railroad and Gold avenues.

Col. John Borradale, deputy revenue collector, this week visited the towns in Valencia county.

Laurel Fred Heyn has resigned on account of ill health. The guards will miss his valuable services.

Mrs. A. Winston has purchased four lots in the northern part of the city, and intends soon to build a residence.

Mrs. George Caudill and children have arrived and George is a happy man. The family have secured a home in the Highlands.

Miss Mamie Whitcomb leaves this evening for Detroit, Mich., where she goes to attend the Grand Army encampment.

There will be a meeting of the executive committee of the territorial fair, next Monday evening. Business of importance.

James M. Fish is the agent at Coolidge. J. E. Fish is a resident of this city, and does not wish the credit of the Coolidge baby.

James Bell and sisters have completed a handsome two-story residence in the Highlands, and to-day are moving into their new home.

The time of the supreme court yesterday was occupied by a contested election case from Taos county. The action of Judge Seeds was sustained.

Mrs. M. E. Harrison, of Beatrice, Nebraska, accompanied by her son, Frank, of Santa Fe, is in the city, looking after her valuable real estate investments here.

The commissioners of Valencia county have appointed A. M. Bergere assessor. R. L. Baca went to Mexico, and the commissioners declared the office vacant.

Lizzie, the little daughter of M. Ridley, was pouring gasoline in the stove this morning, when it caught fire and the flame engulfed her eyebrows and burned her left hand. The injuries are painful, but not serious.

A few nights ago a mountain lion visited Camp Whitecomb, fifteen miles east of this city, and carried off a goat. The beast was tracked for some distance, when the trail was lost. The carcass of the goat was carried off bodily by the ravenous brute.

J. F. McDowell, late editor of the late Lincoln Banner, the farmers' alliance paper in this territory, is in the city. He is on his way to Topeka, and is thoroughly convinced that it is time and money foolishly expended to try to establish the alliance in New Mexico.

Superintendent Croager, of the government Indian school, has received instructions to begin the construction of a two-story brick school house, which will accommodate four hundred pupils, and will commence work at once. The building will cost about $15,000.

Mrs. E. L. Bartlett informs the New Mexican that she is pleased with the action of the meeting of the New Mexico world's fair commissioners in this city, and thinks that the work of gathering exhibits for the great exposition will now go steadily forward.

Married.

Last evening at the residence of the bride's mother, by Rev. Fleckhardt, of the M. E. church, Miss May, only daughter of Mrs. Alice Shannon, and Mr. John Fleckie. The happy couple went on last night's train to the Las Vegas resort for a short stay, and will return to this city in a few days and here make their future home. They have the best wishes of a large circle of friends.

To the Public.

Caldro Mills, Tex., June 5, 1891.—From my own personal knowledge I can recommend Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for cramps in the stomach, also for diarrhoea and flux. It is the best medicine I have ever seen used and the best selling, as it always gives satisfaction. A. K. Sherrill. Twenty and 50 cent bottles for sale by Thos. H. Burgess & Son, druggists.

Business portion of Blair, Wisconsin, destroyed by fire. Loss, about $75,000.

[From the Daily, July 31.]

Neil B. Field returned last night from an eastern trip.

The Elk says a $25,000 hotel will be built in Gallup this fall.

The iron for the roof of the Commercial club building has arrived.

Crash Stevens yesterday proved up on his homestead south of the city.

E. H. Harlow, late foreman in the shops at Raton, has located in this city. At Gallup the contest for town marshal is growing warm. The election will be held Aug. 15.

The Black Diamond coal company at Gallup resumed work last Tuesday with about twenty men.

Zenock, the computer, will appear at Grants open house August 21st and September 1st and 2d.

Judge W. C. Hazledine is wreathed in smiles to-day, the name being the birth of a girl at his home.

City Engineer Scott is getting all the necessary blanks printed for using the sewer system of the city.

The directors of the Rio Grande Irrigation and Colonization company will hold a meeting in Boston tomorrow.

The people of Gallup will hold a mass meeting next Monday evening for the purpose of re-mustering town officers.

The building of the Masonic temple at Las Vegas is assured. The committee selected to locate the temple are meeting with good success.

In the northwestern part of the High Plains last night a violent storm raged a disturbance and a great deal of damage was done to the crops.

San Antonio is making many improvements about new residence at the corner of Copper and Sixth streets.

E. B. Leonard, of this city, has received the appointment of station agent at Trinidad, and left last night to assume the duties of the position.

President Hall, of the fair association, will return to-morrow from northern Arizona, where he has worked up a big interest in the approaching exhibition.

N. T. Chevalier and wife arrived last night from Trinidad, Colorado, and will make this city their future home. Mrs. Chevalier is a sister of Pedro A. Simpson.

W. T. McCreedy returned last evening, and will be looking on his friends to-morrow with little evidences of ill health from this paper. He had a pleasant trip.

The Seacroft Fire Clay company will test the different kinds of building rock found in the Seacroft mountains to ascertain their qualities to withstand intense heat.

If Sam Eckert, of El Paso, gets mad and does not come to the territorial fair, efforts will be made by this paper to prevent the building of any more railroads into El Paso.

Wm. H. Dunbar was killed in an accident at San Pedro a few days ago. He was caught in the machinery at the copper mine, and his legs were terribly mangled, death resulting in a few hours.

No disturbance has taken place at the Gallup mines. The deputy sheriffs have had no call to preserve the peace. It is rumored that a car load of two men from Colorado will go to work in the mines in a few days.

The St. Johns, Arizona, Herald says: Marcella C. de Baca, of Albuquerque, spent four or five days in St. Johns, as the guest of J. L. Hubbell. Mr. Baca has many friends in St. Johns who welcomed him most cordially.

The Las Vegas paper says: It is proposed to pick a running team from the two home companies here and attend the tournament at the territorial fair, capturing, if possible, all the prizes in sight. Pierce Murphy is at the head of it.

The Bank of Commerce is doing a good business, and is one of the strongest financial institutions in the city. All the banks in this city show deposits of about one and a half million dollars—a bad showing for a "windy" town.

F. E. Nelson, superintendent of water service on the Atlantic & Pacific, and wife passed through the city last night on their way to Williams, Arizona, from Strong City, Kan., where Mrs. Nelson has been spending the past few months with relatives.

New Mexican note: The management of the territorial fair to be held at Albuquerque in September next, seems to be in good hands this year, and the fair bids fair to be a success; lend a helping hand all you interested in the advancement and prosperity of New Mexico.

Next Monday morning the marriage of Mr. Casar Grande and Miss Macedonia Gurule will take place at the cathedral in old town. Mr. Grande is one of the best business men in this city, and Miss Gurule is the handsome daughter of D. Gurule, the Railroad avenue merchant.

Noble Trimble is proving that a ranch can be made to pay big money in this valley. He has eighty acres about three miles south of the city, and this year has put about twenty acres in cultivation, and already has cut 40 tons of alfalfa at two cuttings, and will realize two more crops this season. In addition he has cut thirty tons of oats. This was done without irrigation. He is making a pleasant home, and will soon have a permanent income.

RAILROAD MATTER.

The steam pile-driver that was ditched near Arbores is being repaired at Chama.

Chas. Howell, of Raton, had his right foot crushed last Friday by a main rod falling on it.

H. C. Brown, the efficient station agent of the Santa Fe at Trinidad, has sent in his resignation.

Wait, Colington to-day resumed work in the railroad yards, having in charge a switch engine.

Highway station has been opened on the Silver City & Northern. It is at Hall's ranch on the Whitewater.

Chicago ticket scalpers have organized to regulate rates. It will do away with competition if possible.

A resident of Esart, Mich., has invented a device whereby brakes applied to a locomotive will operate every brake on the train.

There is an uneasy feeling among the heads of departments at the Atlantic & Pacific offices since the resignation of D. B. Robinson.

Near Petersburg, Virginia, three boys blockaded a railroad and waited in the brush to see a passenger train wrecked. They were arrested.

A. T. Gray, formerly telegraph operator at Silver City, has gone to Chicago. His place has been taken by Mr. Williamson, of this city.

With cattle and truck trains in addition to the regular passenger trains the Silver City branch of the A. T. & S. F. presents more life than for years past.

A change in time may be looked for on the railroad soon. The Santa Fe is endeavoring to run their trains out and out of Albuquerque in the day time.

Thos. Brophy, an Atlantic & Pacific employee, who has been back east visiting relatives, was a passenger to the city last night. Mr. Brophy is on the Winslow division.

C. E. Tank's 13,000 sheep were shipped from El Paso. He had to wait longer than expected, on account of the railroad being unable to supply him with double-decked cars earlier.

The first train of steel cars ever run arrived at the Wisconsin Central depot at Chicago, Saturday, direct from the shops at Des Moines. It consisted of four freight cars, one left uncovered in order to show its construction.

The San Diego papers announce the arrival in that city of 1,800 tons of rails, locomotives and cars for the new Encinitas road. This is the line which will run from San Quentin, L. C. through Yuma to Phoenix.

There is to be an air testing apparatus placed in the Raton yards for the purpose of testing air brakes on trains. This will greatly facilitate freight trains getting out of the yards, as the air can be tested before the engine is put on the train.

Jas. A. Lockhart, Jr., assistant live stock agent for the Santa Fe road, came down from Raton last night, where he has been attending the shipment of cattle. James stopped for a moment at Las Vegas to speak a word or two with his best girl.

F. W. Simon, clerk in General Manager Robinson's office, and D. M. Hennock, a valuable man in W. W. Pope's office, of the Atlantic & Pacific railway company, after a month's vacation in Canada and Chicago, got home last night in the very best of health, but glad to return from the weltering heat of the metropolitan cities. The boys say that they had a most delightful trip.

The Deming Headlight states that J. W. Bartley, a member of the British parliament, is at the head of the association of English capitalists who have agreed to furnish the means for the construction of the Mexican Northern Pacific railroad. Cablegrams from Mr. Young, now in London, state that this corporation has sent an agent to Mexico to investigate the Mexican securities, and finding them as represented will immediately advance the money for construction.

The Sentinel says: "The surveying corps on the Silver City & Pinos Altos railroad came in and camped on the edge of town on Saturday. The party have been running preliminary lines from Pinos Altos here for a month past. They started from the divide at Pinos Altos on ground belonging to the Golden Giant mine. It is intended to put the Pinos Altos station at that point. From there a number of trial lines have been run down to Silver City, where a connection has been made with the A. T. & S. F. at Ninth street. The various lines run are now being platted from the field notes. The old grade is in perfect condition. Practically one of it has been washed away. It is two miles longer than the shortest of the lines just run, but this increase in length gives lighter grades. Only a small part of the constructed grade will be used. The party expects to commence locating the line to-day, and then construction may be expected to begin very soon after."

From San Antonio.

Aug. Hornung, a well known manufacturer of boots and shoes at 820 Nolan street, San Antonio, Texas, will not soon forget his experience with an attack of the cramps, which he relates as follows: "I was taken with a violent cramp in the stomach, which I believe would have caused my death had it not been for the prompt use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. The first dose did me so much good that I followed it up in twenty minutes with the second dose, and before the doctor could get to where I was, I did not need him. This remedy shall always be one of the main stays of my family." For sale by Thos. H. Burgess & Son, druggists.

M. H. Gentry, who resides in the Highlands, has two Gila monsters. They were captured in Arizona, and he will send them to the Smithsonian Institute, Washington.

THE BAR ASSOCIATION.

The Old Officers Held Over. President Hazledine's Address.

New Mexican.

The New Mexico Bar association held its seventh annual session at the supreme court chamber to-day, convening at 10 a. m.

There were present: W. C. Hazledine, president, E. L. Bartlett, secretary, and Messrs. Catron, Newcomb, Frost, Elliott, Snyder, Berger, Childers, Rodey, Seeds, Freeman, McFie, Lee, Brecken, B. M. Read and J. H. Kneisel.

The minutes of the January meeting having been printed and distributed the reading thereof was dispensed with.

The following were admitted members of the association: W. E. Coons, of Santa Fe, A. A. Jones, of Las Vegas.

The report of the secretary was read and adopted, the financial portion thereof was referred to a committee for examination and report.

The following resolution was submitted by Judge Elliott, seconded by Mr. Catron, and adopted unanimously:

Resolved, That whereas, at the last session of this body the time of the annual meeting was changed to correspond with the changed session of the supreme court, which now meets on the last Monday of July in each year, and whereas, the officers of this association and delegates to the American and National Bar associations were elected last January, for the term of one year, now therefore, to avoid any uncertainty in regard to the terms of such officers, be it

Resolved, That all of such officers, delegates to the American and National Bar associations and committees appointed shall hold over and retain their several offices and positions until the regular annual meeting of this association in 1902.

Judge W. C. Hazledine then read his address, which was referred to the committee on law reform.

In his address President Hazledine said that was a matter of intense gratification that the most important reforms in the administration of justice in this territory, notably, the curtailing of the costs and expenses in the courts, have been accomplished through the labors of this association. He complimented the members on the result and briefly reviewed the several legislative enactments which have become operative in New Mexico since the association became a potential factor in the administration of territorial affairs. Among these are an act relative to judgment liens, an act to fix the time for holding the supreme and district courts, an act in relation to crime, punishments and criminal procedure. The speaker called attention to the change of time of holding the bar meetings, and suggested that either a special meeting be held in mid winter, during the sessions of the legislature, or that the committee on law reform be called to meet at the capital during this time with a view to having legislators and making the laws of New Mexico equal in character, standing and progressiveness to that of any of the most favored states of the union. The work of the national bar association to bring about greater uniformity in the laws of the several states and territories was referred to and commended to the earnest consideration of the members. The concluding portion of the address is as follows:

"I have the honor to present here with a statement from the office of the territorial treasurer, showing the court funds in his hands on July 25, 1891. This fund, in of course, chargeable with any warrants, certificates or claims now outstanding, the amount thereof being unknown to me, but it is certain that there are more or less of such liabilities which would of course reduce the amount of available funds.

The territorial fiscal year commences on the first Monday of March, and we therefore have seven months still remaining during which the courts have to be held, with no funds available for defraying the expenses thereof excepting the balances shown in the treasurer's report.

In the appropriation act, approved February 25, 1891, the following proviso will be found, annexed to section 3: "Provided further, that it shall be unlawful for any court or officer (meaning of course officers) to issue any evidence of indebtedness, or require any service from any juror or witness where there are no funds appropriated for such purpose."

As illustrative of the present condition of the court expense fund I will give you the figures, showing the amount already expended during the present fiscal year and the balance of the appropriations on hand for the payment of jurors in the counties of Santa Fe, Bernillo, Dona Ana, San Miguel and Socorro.

	Month.	Rel. on hand for Soc.
Santa Fe	$2,500.	$1,075.
Bernillo	2,725.	804.
Dona Ana	2,698.	707.
San Miguel	2,167.	558.
Socorro	2,300.

It is not for me to suggest what if any action should be taken by the bar association in this matter. I deemed it to be my duty to call your attention to the fact as it exists, and leave it to you to apply the remedy. Your attention is also called to the full report upon this subject made by the secretary."

The association then adjourned till the regular meeting in August, 1902.

Hon. William C. Hazledine, president of the New Mexico Bar association, is a native of Michigan. Very early in life he began the study of law in his native state, was in due time admitted to practice and shortly after the termination of the war he emigrated to Arkansas. There he soon took prominent rank in public affairs while engaged in the practice of his profession. He served as a member of the Arkansas state legislature, and afterward, when but 27 years of age, received the appointment of judge of the second judicial district of that state. It required great tact, good business judgment and skill for a republican from the north to serve the people of that section in those trying times, but these qualifications are a part of the every day make up of Judge Hazledine, and he served the people most satisfactorily.

He came to New Mexico in 1875 and located in Santa Fe, two years later removing to Albuquerque. A few years later he represented Bernillo county in the 25th legislative assembly as a member of the council and made an excellent record for himself as a painstaking, progressive legislator. Amongst other positions he has held may be noted that of county commissioner of Bernillo county, chairman of the republican county central committee, member of the constitutional convention, president of the bureau of immigration, president of the bar association, and has also been honored by various prominent positions in the Maconic order and in the Episcopal church. As to his railroad career, he started in with the Santa Fe as one of its attorneys soon after they entered this territory, and when the determination was reached to commence the construction of the Atlantic & Pacific railroad, in the early part of 1880, he was transferred to that company, with the position of local attorney for New Mexico, afterwards being promoted to solicitor, then to general counsel, and now holds the responsible position of general attorney in charge of the entire legal, tax and claim departments of the company. He is in every sense a public spirited, courteous, intelligent gentleman and a citizen of whom New Mexico may justly feel proud.

MR. MOORE OF ALBUQUERQUE.

A Tale of the Voiceless West and the Chivalry of One of Its Sons.

[Written for the Galveston News by Miss Jessie A. Dwyer.]

"It was very sudden, so the paper said. Heart disease or something of the sort. I met Moore of Albuquerque about six months ago. Went down there on a horse back."

I cannot to rock lazily and sat upright with a start.

"Captain, I wonder if that is a man I've met also. Could you describe him to me?"

The cavalryman smiled. He rested his pipe across his knee and gazed with retrospective eye at the view. That horse back had his memories evidently.

"Certainly, Miss —, but I doubt recognition. A six-footer, with a clean shaven face and an eye like light on steel. Quite a character in these parts. I met him several times. He was a story. I remember hearing — and he related into anecdote."

I looked across the parade in silence. Some one else broke into the conversation, and by and by the little party upon the porch separated with light adieu and went their several ways. Then I dropped into the hammock and I thought, let me begin at the beginning.

It was many years ago. An army sister and myself were in El Paso, Texas, on our way west. All arrangements for departure had been completed. The agreeable condition of affairs, however, failed to include in materialization the back, which at the eleventh hour was conspicuous for non-appearance. Hope had fled, and we were telephoning for another when it suddenly appeared and we hurried in. A race against time was begun. Down El Paso street, faster and faster to stop abruptly in front of a bank, out of which a tall, grey figure hurriedly flung open the door and sprang in. He deposited a light value upon the front seat, and calmly appropriated the remaining space himself. Had the clock fallen or the earth yawned, we could not have been smitten with more concentrated astonishment.

"Did you not," I said, touching my sister superciliously, "did you not engage this carriage early?"

She bowed. I looked across at the intruder. Our eyes met, and my own fell. His face was a dull red, and he was biting his lip savagely. I sank back into a corner and was glad of it. He was not exactly enjoying his ride, one meets with strange adventures, stranger personalities when traveling. What did the man mean by sitting up there like a graven image? Was it possible he had no explanations, no apologies to offer? Yet, further what was he doing by springing out at the depot to cavalierly assist us descend?

I honored him with a stare that should have rooted him to the spot, disdained his hand and literally fell upon the steps leading to the platform.

"Time to question the Jehu, now for words of any kind, we found ourselves seated and the train moving before we had caught our breath."

Perhaps you think we diademed fruitless comment. Well, women are pretty much of a mind. As it happened, I was talking at the wrong time. It does not matter what was said. There was a touching uniformity of opinion between us, and we mutually agreed that should the object of our wrath appear again upon the scene, we would convey him with morbid confusion and having arrived at this praiseworthy conclusion, we forgot all about it. At least I did in a book.

When I looked up and down the car there sat Mrs. — and "that creature," gaily conversing. Had I been a man I should have sworn. As it happened, otherwise I fell into a still rage. I became blind to "becks and nods and wretched smiles" from the conversationists, suspiciously interested in my literature. At the supper station I was duly informed that he was "Mr. Moore," been introduced, explained, apologized proffered his services, etc., etc., all of which I mentally set in judgment upon. Later, when
